Cash calendars support community programs

Leave something behind. Make an enduring difference in the Highlands. The Haliburton and District Lions Club is calling on all seasonal residents, cottagers and visitors to the Highlands to purchase a Super Cash Calendar Raffle Ticket.

The Lions raise money so that they can give it away to those in need. The list of recipients is long and ever-increasing. It includes, but is certainly not limited to, aid for victims of fire, sending kids to camps, purchasing prescription glasses and medical supplies and financial support for numerous non profit groups and organizations such as Food 4 Kids and Fuel for Warmth. Lions are here to help. They can help more people more often if you help by purchasing a Super Cash Calendar Raffle Ticket.

Here's how it works:

- Only 350 Cash Calendars will be sold!
- You have a chance to win every month for 12 months.
- Monthly draws will take place on the second Thursday of each month from October 2015 to September 2016 at the Haliburton and District Lions Club Meeting.
- Cash Calendars cost $65 each. That's just $5.42 per month!
- You win cash! Three draws - three cash prizes every month. First ticket drawn wins $100 cash. The second ticket drawn wins $200 cash and the third ticket drawn wins $500 cash.
- All tickets drawn are returned for future draws.

Look for the Lions and purchase a ticket at the Lions barbecues at Curry Chevrolet on Saturday, July 18 and at Art in Park on July 24, 25 and 26. Call 705-457-3768 or email gailstelter@sympatico.ca today!

Don't miss this opportunity to leave something behind. Something very good!

Bursary gives to musical youth

Members of the Bowed Well String Ensemble and Highlands Celtic Jam play together at the Haliburton Musical Instrument Bursary Concert on June 19 at St. George's Anglican Church in Haliburton. The concert was a fundraiser for the musican bursary program, which gives money to high school students interested in pursuing a musical interest. Seventeen-year-old Cody Williams was this year's recipient of the bursary, with Beth Foster as the runner-up. The bursary program is still accepting donations. Try these superfoods this summer

Alanna Jean, Natural Living

Are you looking to add some nutrient-dense foods into your pantry? I've made you a list of some delicious and nutritious superfoods to try out this summer. Goji berries are a dried berry from China, Mongolia or Tibet that has been grown for over 5,000 years. These berries are a complete protein, contain 21 trace minerals, are high in zeaxanthin and lutein (which protect your eyes) and contain three times the antioxidants as blueberries. Spirulina is a blue-green spiral algae that is 65 per cent protein. It is very rich in chlorophyll making it a fantastic detoxifier. Spirulina is also very high in Omega 6 (Essential Fatty Acid) and contains as much Iron as a steak! Cacao (raw chocolate) is considered to be "the food of the gods." It contains a remarkably high amount of antioxidants, and is packed full of magnesium, which aids the body in stress management. Try all three in this delicious breakfast smoothie:

Superfood Smoothie

- 1 frozen banana
- 1 cup of spinach
- 1 tablespoon of almond butter
- a handful of your favourite frozen berries (I like raspberries)
- 2 cups of water
- 1 tablespoon of Goji Berries
- 1 teaspoon of Spirulina powder
- 1 teaspoon of Cacao powder

Blend on a high speed until it's smooth and creamy. Happy blending!

Alanna Jean is a certified nutritional practitioner based on Drag Lake in Haliburton specializing in weight loss and stress management. You can find her by calling 647-239-5445, visiting www.AlannaJeanNutrition.com or following instagram.com/LannaGreens.

Do you have traditional skills you'd like to share? Do you quilt, spin, knit, bake or perhaps do woodworking? Are there traditional skills you'd like to learn? Perhaps canning, gardening, sewing or old-fashioned games? When the first settlers came to the Haliburton area in the 19th century, a great deal of knowledge would have been passed from person to person and generation to generation informally – especially when school was out! We're hoping to tap into this aspect of Haliburton's past through a grant we've received from the New Horizons for Seniors program. Visitors to the museum often tell us that there are skills they regret not picking up from family members when they were younger and we know that seniors in our community have a vast array of skills and knowledge to share. Through this program in partnership with the Dysart et al. Recreation Program, we hope to close the generation gap and preserve skills that might otherwise be lost, as well as getting people more active throughout our community. But we need your help!

We're seeking seniors who are willing to volunteer some time and their skills to teach children, youth and young adults. The focus will be on hands-on fun and learning together. You can volunteer as little or as much of your time as you like. The Museum will provide the materials required by the volunteers, and there will be no charge for the children to participate.

Come to the Haliburton Highlands Museum (66 Museum Road) on Sunday, August 2nd between 11am and 3pm for our Haliburton Settler-bration to learn more about the program. Bring along a picnic lunch and join us for traditional games, demonstrations and treats! Try out a few new skills and even enjoy a tour of the Haliburton Sculpture Forest! If you have any questions about the event or you would like to get involved with our New Horizons for Seniors project, please contact Kate Butler at the Museum at 705-457-2760, or e-mail info@haliburtonhighlandsmuseum.com.

Funds help local effort to improve services for older adults

After being shown the money, local age-friendly advocates want to show how services and infrastructure can be improved to support healthy aging in Haliburton County.

Over the next year, $25,000 in funding from the Ontario government's Age-Friendly Community Planning Grant Program will be used to create an age-friendly master plan for Haliburton County. The new master plan will serve as a roadmap on how local agencies, municipal representatives and older adults in the area can work together to create a more age-friendly place to call home. The provincial grant was recently awarded to the County of Haliburton and the Aging Well Committee of Haliburton County.

"The funding is greatly appreciated, since it will help us move forward with ideas on how to build a more age-friendly community in Haliburton County," says Angela Andrews, chairperson of the local Aging Well Committee.

The Aging Well Committee is a group of local seniors and public health staff working to improve the quality of life for older adults in Haliburton County. The committee works with other community partners to listen to the needs of older adults, raise awareness of seniors' issues, and advocate on their behalf. In recent years, the Aging Well Committee has worked on a number of projects to support older adults in Haliburton County.

According to Andrews, creating an age-friendly master plan can benefit all Haliburton County residents – not just older adults. "An age-friendly community is a healthy and active place where people of all ages and abilities enjoy enhanced quality of life," she notes. "By providing programs and support services that assist older adults, an age-friendly community helps all its citizens, including families, young children and persons with disabilities."

"Community input from local seniors, service providers and municipal representatives will be critical in the development of an effective age-friendly master plan for Haliburton County," says Kelly Kay, executive director of the Seniors' Care Network. The agency is affiliated with the Central East Local Health Integration Network, and will assist the local Aging Well Committee in development of the master plan.

The Seniors' Care Network enhances the health care experience for frail older adults and their caregivers in central east Ontario, while providing care tailored and focused on the unique needs of older adults. Recently, the Seniors' Care Network launched a new Geriatric Assessment and Intervention Team in Haliburton County.

"An age-friendly community supports healthy living in older adults," notes Stacey Hawkins, a director with Seniors' Care Network, who is co-leading the initiative with Andrews. "We applaud the initiative to create an Age-Friendly Master Plan in Haliburton County, and look forward to working with local leaders in fulfilling their vision."

According to Andrews, small, rural and remote communities like Haliburton County often face unique challenges in providing services to older adults. In the past, some of the challenges identified in supporting older adults in this area have included: a limited number of health and social service support agencies, large geographical distances between local services/businesses and seniors' homes, and limited transportation services. Says Andrews: "Creating a master plan can help bridge these gaps and create a more age-friendly place for all of us."

To find out more about the age-friendly master plan, contact the local health unit at 705-457-1391, ext. 3239.

Hopping across the countryside with SIRCH

By Angelica Blenich

It's a foreign feeling to be riding through the Haliburton Highlands and come to a halt at a sign that reads "Bus Stop."

The signs are accompanied by a route map that extends from Haliburton to West Guilford, over to Carnarvon and then Minden.

There is a list of stops, with a departure time for each round of the scheduled trips, with the route being travelled three times daily on Tuesdays.

When I first saw the Hop On Hop Off bus, an initiative of SIRCH Community Services, it was outfitted with a bright sign across the side and could not be missed.

Parked outside of the Thrift Warehouse in Haliburton, its departure point for each trip, the bus was welcoming and inviting, with air conditioning, cushy seats and more features than your average school bus.

Waiting for me was conductor George Farrell and guest conductor Kate Butler, director of the Haliburton Highlands Museum, both of whom were also welcoming and inviting.

Upon getting onto the bus, each rider is given a gift bag, filled with information, coupons and event listings.

From the moment the bus begins its journey there is never a dull moment, as Farrell steps into his role as tour guide, asking passengers questions about themselves and breaking into the occasional song.

Butler offers a wealth of local history knowledge, including information about the railway, the formation of Haliburton County and how Dysart Avenue was once known as Oak Avenue (and is still referred this way by many locals).

The bus meanders through Haliburton Village, stopping at places such as the Haliburton School of the Arts, the caboose at Head Lake Park, the Emmerson Dam and other stops before heading out towards West Guilford.

Each stop has been selected to give passengers something to do once they arrive, whether it be take a tour of the Sculpture Forest, take in the farmers' market or stroll through town for some shopping.

A stop at the West Guilford Community Centre is followed by a jaunt over to Abbey Gardens, where a rider can get out to explore the gardens, food hub or Haliburton Highlands Brewery.

The bus continues on to Carnarvon, parking itself in front of popular eatery Rhubarb and craft brewery Boshkung Brewing.

Down the road it travels to Minden, where passengers are taken to the upscale Thrift Warehouse, another SIRCH initiative, and then over to the Haliburton County tourism office.

A 10-minute stop there allows travellers to have a washroom break, peruse the Haliburton Highlands Roots clothing line, pick up a free doggie treat or simply grab a cup of water from the water cooler.

The bus continues over to downtown Minden, stopping in front of home decor store Sassy Digs on Bobcaygeon Road.

The journey moves over the bridge and down to Molly's Bistro, right next to the Minden Hills Cultural Centre and Minden Library.

Then off it heads back towards Haliburton, stopping again at Rhubarb restaurant, Abbey Gardens, West Guilford Community Centre and in various points in Haliburton Village.

Two and a half hours roundtrip, the bus ride is designed to give passengers the opportunity to hop on, hop off and explore points of interest along the way.

At a cost of $10 for a day pass, the Hop On Hop Off bus is an affordable and experiential way to explore the Highlands, one that every resident should take advantage of this summer.

It runs every Tuesday from now until Aug. 18, with the first trip scheduled for 10 a.m., second at 12:45 p.m. and third at 3:30 p.m.

For more information, including schedule, visit www.sirch.on.ca/2015/06/hop-on-hop-off-bus.
